The new Homesnap.com experience is here!

As part of Homesnap's agreement to serve as the public-facing brand of the Broker Public Portal, they committed to updating their website, Homesnap.com, so that the experience of searching for homes on a computer was similar to using the Homesnap app. The update is now complete!
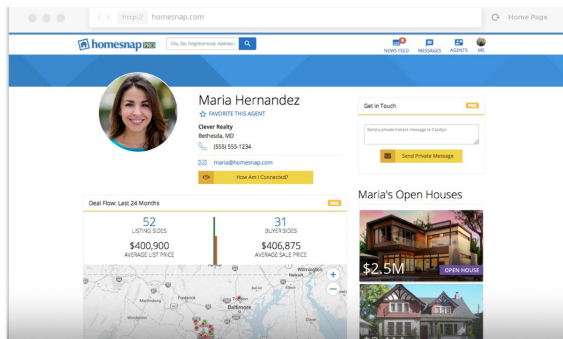

The new face of Homesnap is now live on the web! Homesnap is thrilled to unveil a national consumer home search platform built from within the industry and governed by Fair Display Guidelines. Their website's new look and improved functionality include enhanced home search, easy navigation and a 200%-quicker load time. All of the app's Pro features are now all accessible on the web.

Here are some highlights you may want to dive into first:

Familiar Interface and Experience

The new Homesnap.com has a user-friendly design that mirrors the app. You'll recognize color-coded listings on the map and yellow agent-only data throughout the site.

Send a Rapid CMA

Access the CMA creator from any property listing, and generate a Rapid CMA in seconds that you can email to anyone.

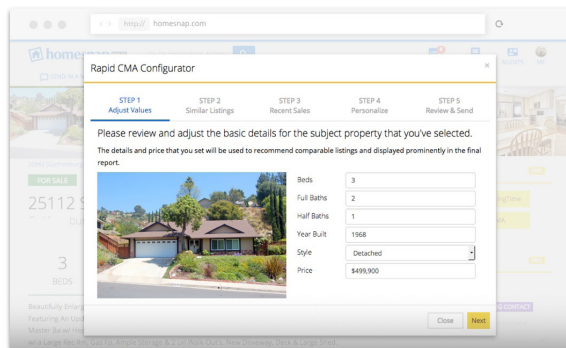

News Feed, Messages and More

Open the News Feed and Messages from any screen. Click the blue box in the top-right corner (see above) to expand the view. Messages, recent searches, favorited homes and news feed updates are synced across the web and app.

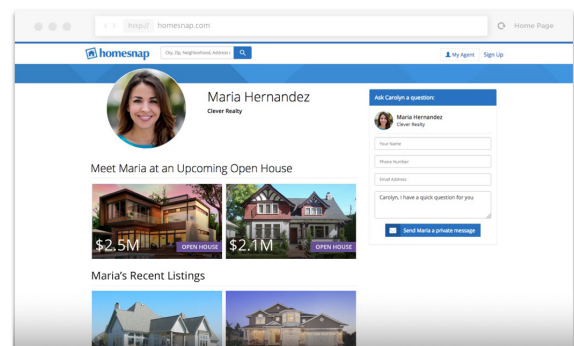

New Agent Profiles

Agents told Homesnap they want their open houses and listings to be displayed on their public-facing profile. They did that and more! Plus, they revamped the agent-only profiles too.
